BISHOP JOHN JOSEPH CANTWELL ASSISTS IN DEDICATION OF K. OF C. CLUBHOUSE

CHURCH OFFICIAL PAYS TRIBUTE TO EFFICIENCY OF ORGANIZATION

Impressive and Patriotic Program Takes Place in Attractive New Home

THE new $25,000 Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 330 East Lomita avenue last night was formally blessed by Bishop John Joseph Cantwell. Knights of Columbus from various parts of southern California attended the function. Among them were Attorney Joseph Scott of Pasadena and Jack Curtin of Los Angeles, both of whom made short speeches.

Grand Knight Harry Girard presided and expressed his extreme pleasure in the occasion.

"This is perhaps the happiest moment of my life tonight," he declared. "I have visualized and dreamed of Glendale Knights of Columbus having a home of their own. I am glad to welcome our bishop out here to dedicate this clubhouse to Columbianism and the service of God as exemplified by the Roman Catholic church."

Community psychology was favorable toward a K. of C. building project when the present officers took office, according to Mr. Girard, who stated that the acting officers took little credit to themselves for the enterprise. A number of those present thought otherwise, however, and said so. Congratulations from all sides poured upon Mr. Girard and his associate officers.

Praised by Bishop

Bishop Cantwell declared that the half in regard to the energy and achievements of the local K. of C. council had not been told him.

"When I heard of the building of a clubhouse for the Knights of Columbus in Glendale," he remarked, "I was surprised, because it was only a short time ago since it was my privilege to dedicate a very beautiful church here to the glory of God."

Plans are now ready for Glendale's parochial school, according to Bishop Cantwell. He intimated that this project would be taken up immediately.

"This building, which I bless

LOCAL CREDIT MEN ELECT OFFICERS

Owen C. Emery Again Heads Association; Co-Operation Keynote

The Glendale Merchants' Credit association met in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday and elected its officers and directors for the ensuing year. Yesterday's meeting was the first held by the credit men since the advent of the holidays.

A feature of the election was that all of the old directors were replaced in office. The complete returns follow:

Owen C. Emery, re-elected president; Walter P. Potter, first vice president; H. M. Butts, second vice president; H. S. Webb, treasurer, and Frank H. Pilling, secretary.

The directors elected to succeed themselves, were:

H. M. Butts, Owen C. Emery, William H. Hooper, William Moore, Archie Parker, Walter P. Potter, and H. S. Webb.

Makes Brief Talk

Judge Emery, who presided at the meeting, delivered a brief address following the reading of the election returns. He said that he appreciated the honor bestowed on him, and that he would strive during the coming year to build up a larger organization.

Co-operation was the keynote emphasized in Judge Emery's talk. He told the membership that inestimable work could be effected by the organization this coming year if all the members will get behind the credit men's association and push.

He also commented on the creditable showing made in civic affairs during the past year by the credit association.

Brief addresses were made by the other officers elected to office. There were more than sixty members in attendance.

Woman Points Gun At Burglar While Husband Searches

PAUL MOLLOY, whose address is somewhat uncertain, was captured at about 10 o'clock last night as he was in the act of burglarizing the lunch room at Montrose.

"I saw his flashlight from my bedroom window," remarked George W. Aden, proprietor of the filling station next door.

With a "six-shooter" in his hand, Mr. Aden went around to the rear entrance of the restaurant and got a drop on young Molloy. He was instructed to put his hands out of the window and was assisted in leaving the building by this means of egress.

Mrs. Aden, who arrived on the scene in a short time, kept young Molloy covered while her husband searched him for a weapon. None was found.

A vest pocket set of burglar tools packed in an imitation leather case, were found in the possession of Molloy. These consist of a chisel, file, saw, lock-pickers, pair of tweezers and several other tools.

Other property consisted of several flashlights, an auto strop razor in a leather case, two large jackknives and other articles.

The lunchroom is operated by George S. Charbonneau of 1325 East Colorado street, who was in Glendale at the time of the attempted burglary.

FOOTBALL TEAMS BANQUET GUESTS

Chet Dolley, Captain-Elect Of Trojans, Gives Talk To Glendale Players

Nearly 100 players, coaches, supporters and friends of the Glendale gridiron squads were present last night at the second annual Hi-Y banquet in honor of the heavyweight and lightweight teams of the Glendale Union high school.

The affair took place at 6:30 o'clock in the social hall of the First Baptist church, corner of Wilson and Louise.

The speaker of the evening was Chet Dolley, captain-elect of next year's University of Southern California football team, and his subject, "Clean Athletics," was a powerful and convincing argument for the type of sport that is fast making America the "white spot" on the athletic map of the world.

"Athletics that are not clean are worse than no athletics at all," stated Captain Dolley. "For, instead of building up, they tear down, physically and morally."

Needed to Success

Captain Dolley then went on to discuss the making of a successful team and a successful season, such as the one U. of S. C. has just concluded. There are three chief ingredients in the recipe, according to Dolley—men, a purpose, and a background. With these ingredients, a strict adherence to the rules of the recipe by the chef (the coach) will produce the desired result.

There must be many men, he elaborated. Large squads make for athletic victories. Though the scrubs gain very little glory before the world, their teammates and schoolmates know it was their hard work that in no little measure helped the team to win.

Then the purpose must be strong. Victory in itself means nothing, Captain Dolley pointed out. There must be a valid, pow-

RICHARDSON GIVES HIS MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE

Governor in Inaugural Asks Lawmakers to Help Him Enforce Economy

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9.—California inaugurated a new governor today with democratic simplicity.

Friend W. Richardson who succeeded William D. Stephens as governor announced he would drive to the capitol in the old "flivver" in which he made his campaign.

Governor Stephens, as his last official act, delivered to the legislature his third biennial message reviewing completely the policies of his administration and the outstanding legislation of the six year period during which he held the executive reins.

Governor Stephens transmitted to the legislature the Colorado river pact with a recommendation for its ratification, reports of two agricultural investigation boards, a report on the care and treatment of narcotic addicts and the report of the Mount Diablo park commission.

Richardson's Address

It was following the completion of Governor Stephens' address that Governor-Elect Richardson went to the capitol to take office and deliver his inaugural address. Richardson's address follows in full:

"To the Senate and Assembly of the State of California: At the recent primary election there was one paramount issue before the people. At the general election there was presented the same issue. The people by their vote at these two elections indicated that they want the state conducted on an economical, efficient and business-like basis, that they want to stop the orgy of extravagance which has prevailed during the past few years, and that they want to put out of power the political machine which has dominated the state government. The expressed will of the people must be carried out without weakening any of the humane, charitable, progressive or educational functions of the state government.

MERRIAM VICTORY SUBDUES 'ENEMY'

Richardson Candidate Is Now Speaker; Glendale Representatives Sworn

Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9.—Not unlike the little boy spanked by a new stepfather, members of the forty-fifth legislature, who lined up against Frank Merriam in the speakership fight yesterday, straggled up to the capitol today for the joint session at which Friend Richardson will be declared governor.

Merriam was elected with a vote to spare over the forty-one he needed. Rosenshine got the twenty-five votes predicted for him.

"Curse these newspaper men in politics," swore one assemblyman to another ardent supporter of Albert Rosenshine, and both of them admitted a headache, yet they still have hope of the senate holding aloof from the governor's control with all old-timers in the saddle.

Glendale Representatives

Senators seem agreed to be agreeable, and by caucuses are going to eliminate any babel on the floor.

Senator A. Burlinghame Johnson and Assemblyman Frank Weller were given the oath of office yesterday as representatives of Glendale's district.

Regarding Richardson's victory on the eve of his inauguration, The Sacramento Union today says editorially: "While Speaker Merriam's election has great bearing on future activities of the administration, it is also of great significance as a repudiation of the Al McCabe-Tom Finn machine, which struggled tenaciously to maintain its grasp on politics of the state.

Both houses of the legislature met shortly before noon to perfect their organization ,adjourning until afternoon when they met in joint session to hear Governor Stephens and for the inauguration of Governor-elect Richardson.

Chief Justice Shaw of the state Supreme court arrived today to administer the oath to the incoming executive.

WOMAN GUILTY OF SLAYING HUSBAND PAYS PENALTY

Man Convicted With Her on Same Charge Also Goes To His Death

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, Jan. 9.—In a cold, gray drizzle of rain Mrs. Edith Jessie Thompson was hanged in the gloomy courtyard of the Holloway jail at 9 o'clock this morning for the murder of her husband. At the same moment the woman's 20-year-old lover, Frederick Bywaters, condemned on the same charge, went to doom on the scaffold in Pentonville prison.

Both executions, according to British custom, were strictly private with only a handful of officials present.

Percy Thompson, the victim of this sordid tragedy of illicit love, was stabbed to death at Ilford on October 4 by Bywaters, after Mrs. Thompson had made an unsuccessful effort to poison him.

Woman Collapses

Mrs. Thompson collapsed and was under the care of a prison physician as the hour drew near for her to go to the scaffold. She lapsed into unconsciousness, but in lucid moments called for Bywaters.

The condemned man kept up his courage until the end and smoked a cigarette before the hangman adjusted the fatal black hood.

Death was instantaneous in both cases.

It was understood that the bishop of Stepney and the prison chaplain visited Mrs. Thompson early this morning, asking her if she wished to make a confession. She replied:

"I am prepared. I have nothing on my soul. I am innocent."

Early in the morning crowds began to assemble in front of the two prisons, milling over the wet, slippery streets in throngs.

Detachments of police were ordered to the scene and the streets immediately flanking the jail were cleared.

Thanks Jailers

Bywaters passed a fairly quiet night. He ate breakfast and then he sent a message of thanks to the jailers.

As the youth was led out on his last earthly journey he greeted the executioners:

"Good morning, gentlemen!"

Prison officials erected screens to prevent people from seeing the execution from neighboring housetops.

Percy Thompson was stabbed to death in the street. According to testimony, Mrs. Thompson plotted her husband's death because of her love for the younger man. The trial was one of the most sensational in recent years, rivalling the Thaw trial in New York in public interest.

DAN CUPID LOSES BATTING AVERAGE

Decrease in Marriages for Year 1922; Attractions For Divorced Folk

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9. — Dan Cupid's hand has lost its cunning. The love darts of the famous match-maker are falling short of their mark.

Such are the deductions to be taken from the marriage statistics for 1922, as announced today by L. E. Ross, head of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the state board of health.

The estimated total of marriages for the past year just ended is 46,041, while in 1921 a total of 46,772 marriages were recorded. This represents a decrease in the total number of marriages of 731. If the increase in population should be taken into consideration, the waning popularity of the marriage mart would be even more marked.

Like Attracts Like

From another startling turn which the game of matrimony has taken it appears that divorced women often prefer to make their second venture with divorced men. More than thirty-one per cent of the divorced women who remarried last year picked men whose first search for matrimonial bliss had failed.

Widows, however, do not longer turn to widowers for love and solace. Only twenty-one per cent of the widows who married again during the year chose men who had lost their first mates by death.

Attorney-General Is Exonerated in Congress Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Attorney - General Harry M. Daugherty was exonerated today by the house judiciary committee of impeachment charges brought by Representative Oscar E. Keller, Republican of Minnesota.

The vote in the committee was 12 to 2, the Democratic members favoring going before the house with an impeachment resolution.

Representative Keller, author of the charges, was criticized by the committee for failure to comply with the committee's directions to produce evidence. The committee held he had no constitutional right or privilege to withhold his testimony. It voted 11 to 3 to submit a report to the house concerning Keller's action, but to make no recommendations.

The resignation of Attorney-General Daugherty has not been tendered President Harding, and it is not expected, it was officially declared at the White House this morning.

LOCAL GIRL HURT IN MOUNTAIN HIKE

Miss Vera Anderson Injures Self by Fall of 100 Yards Down Steep Canyon

Reports from Camp Baldy in San Antonio canyon, tell of Miss Vera Anderson of Glendale, being painfully injured in a fall of nearly 100 yards down the steep and snowbound side of upper Ice House canyon, branching off of San Antonio canyon beyond Camp Baldy.

The report states that Miss Anderson with a party of Glendale young people motored to the canyon Sunday morning, when they parked their cars at Chapman's camp near the mouth of Ice House Canyon.

After lunch Miss Anderson and Roscoe Bruner announced that they were going to hike up the canyon to the divide on the trail to Old Baldy.

Find Couple

When darkness came and the couple had not returned their companions became worried and were deciding what to do when a hiker returned down the canyon bringing word that Bruner had hobbled up to the trail and asked him to bring the message that Miss Anderson was injured and that he had sprained his ankle.

After a futile search lasting until 1 o'clock Monday morning the aid of rangers and campers was enlisted and led by Herbert McCulloch, manager of Camp Baldy. Miss Anderson and her escort were found later in the morning.

Miss Anderson was carried on a blanket to Camp Baldy. She had sustained her injuries when she lost her footing on the ice covered trail and rolled down the rough mountain side. Her right ankle was severely sprained and her right knee injured. Mr. Bruner injured his left ankle in his efforts to rescue his companion.

Judge Gavin Craig Nabbed for Speeding

Judge Gavin W. Craig was arrested this morning by Motorcycle Officer G. M. Booth for speeding west on Colorado boulevard at the rate of twenty-six miles an hour. Technically, he is charged with having traversed this highway at a greater speed than fifteen miles an hour.

Judge Craig is justice of the district court of appeals. He lives in Eagle Rock and was on his way to Los Angeles.

According to Officer Booth, Judge Craig took his arrest courteously and made no attempt to make an excuse.

INVASION OF RUHR IN OPPOSITION TO TREATY, CLAIMS CHANCELLOR

Nation Will Not Bow Down To Compulsion, Declares Cuno in Statement

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service
Copyright, 1923, International News

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—Germany is considering the advisability of breaking off diplomatic relations with France the moment French troops enter the Ruhr, it was learned from authoritative sources today.

German officials gave the impression that, if France seizes the Ruhr and the Westphalian industrial belt, the government will issue a proclamation charging that the treaty of Versailles has been rendered null and void.

Chancellor Cuno, in an exclusive statement to International News Service, said Germany would not bow to force.

Ready to Pay, Claim

"I can only repeat earnestly and emphatically that the use of force will mean the death of economic reparations," said the chancellor. "We are ready as we always have been to pay voluntarily to the limit of our capacity. But we shall not bow to compulsion. We want peace, but the German people will, if necessary, walk the road of suffering. We cannot oppose force with force, but we can demonstrate to the world the unreasonableness and illegality of the French plan.

"Ruhr invasion or any other measure surpassing the limits and rights of present occupation will be a violation of the treaty of Versailles and constitute the use of wanton force against a defenseless people."

Special Protection

The Berlin police have assured the French embassy of special protection.

The French demand that the allied control commission be increased by the addition of officers.

There is much "war scare" talk in the German press.

The government has not yet decided what the status of conditions would be, should the Versailles treaty be declared null and void. One opinion is that it would leave Germany in the same position she was in immediately following the armistice, another is that it would precipitate a state of war. The latter view seemed to be gaining ground.

May Appeal to U. S.

Germany was reported to be drafting an appeal to the signatories to the Versailles treaty, including the United States.

"Between war and peace" was the headline over the Neue Berliner Zeitung's comment. The editorial began:

"The most fateful decision since 1914 is at hand."

While there have been heavy French troop movements along the Rhine, so far all of them have been confined to the zone of occupation. There has been no actual invasion at any point.

Owing to war scare reports, some of which bear official stamp, party lines are disappearing and newspapers of all political complexions are supporting the government.

WRIGHT DRY LAW UPHELD BY COURT

State Supreme Decision in Favor of Enforcement Act Made Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—The constitutionality of the Wright prohibition enforcement act was upheld by the state supreme court in a decision today refusing a writ of habeas corpus to Franklin Burke, selected for the test by the California Protective Association, and remanding him to jail.

"We find nothing in the act which makes the law invalid so far as it adopted the existing provisions of the Volstead act," said the decision of the court. This was one of the chief points attacked.

The court also held that whether the fine assessed under the act went to the state or the federal government was not a matter of concern to the prisoner but a matter to be threshed out later.

PARDONS CONVICT

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9.—Dr. William S. Card of San Francisco, who was convicted of murder growing out of an alleged operation after a sensational trial in 1918, was today pardoned by Governor W. D. Stephens and will be immediately released from San Quentin prison.

U. S. Policy Again Watchful Waiting On Events Abroad

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—With French soldiers actually on the march towards the Ruhr, all American moves or suggestions of a soothing and remedial nature, can now be considered as suspended, it was stated officially here today.

There is but one method now by which the United States can be drawn into any adjustment plan, and that is for the allied powers unanimously to request American good offices in solving the difficulties that confront them jointly.

This policy was asserted with great positiveness today by President Harding's chief advisers prior to the meeting of the cabinet.

An attitude of absolute silence was maintained concerning the American troops on the Rhine. Whether they will be brought home immediately in response to the senate resolution of Saturday, or whether they will be left on the banks of the Rhine for whatever "stabilizing" effect they may have, were questions which were officially sidestepped.

The impression was thrown out that the future of the Yanks depended upon "eventualities."

To all appearances, at least, the administration's policy today simmered down to one of waiting and watching events abroad—with some apprehension.

First Annual Meeting and Banquet to Take Place Next Friday Night

TROOPS ADVANCING TO SEIZE KRUPP WORKS; VATICAN ISSUES PLEA

Germans Default on Coal And Coke, Decision of Inter-Allied Board

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Troops of France are being massed for the seizure of Essen, the seat of Germany's largest industry, the Krupp works. The French advance guards have today penetrated the neutral zone and are rapidly approaching Essen.

The inter-allied reparations commission today declared Germany in default on coal and coke deliveries pledged under the treaty of Versailles. France, Belgium and Italy voted for the default and Britain against it. The American observer, Rowland Boyden, although he had no vote, sided with the British. He said the treaty was to blame for Germany's default.

The Vatican has requested France not to invade the Ruhr, said an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rome this afternoon.

A dispatch from Brussels says that active military preparations were under way there today to support the French advance into the Ruhr. Belgian troop movements towards the German frontier were reported to be proceeding.

A report from Paris is that the chamber of deputies reconvened at 2 o'clock this afternoon to consider the new Rhineland situation created by Germany's reparations defaults. Premier Poincare is expected to address the chamber Thursday.

Information is to the effect that General De Goutte, commander of the French army of occupation on the Rhine, is establishing military headquarters at Dusseldorf in preparation for the advance into the Ruhr, according to word from Cologne.

It is reported the French may move against Essen tomorrow as a result of the action of the reparations commission in holding Germany in default on coal deliveries.

Commission Declares Germany Is in Default

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The inter-allied reparations commission today held Germany in default on coal and coke deliveries 1922, pledged under the treaty of Versailles.

When the reparations commission meeting broke up announcement was made that formal notice of Germany's default would be sent to all the allied governments later in the day.

France, Belgium and Italy voted for default; Britain against it.

A special meeting of the commission was summoned yesterday to give the Germans an opportunity to explain why they had failed to make the promised deliveries The explanation was not completed and a second session of the commission was called today. The German explanation was deemed insufficient and the commission voted Germany in wilful default.

Sides with British

Rowland Boyden, American observer on the reparations commission, although he has no vote, sided with the British.

"The Versailles treaty set an impossible task for Germany," Boyden told the commissioners. "The treaty is to be blamed for Germany's default."

Boyden's address opposing the action of the majority of the commission caused a sensation.

Boyden agreed that the French thesis that Germany did default was correct from a judicial standpoint. He then emphasized the strictures imposed by the treaty and diplomatically suggested that the pact be revised.

Second Declared Default

This is the second time within a few weeks that Germany has been held in default of deliveries, the first being on wood.

The motion officially to declare Germany in default was made by Former French Premier Barthou, chairman of the reparations commission.

A faction of the cabinet wished to have the French advance begin as soon as Germany was declared in default, but it was reported that Italy suggested France wait until January 15 before taking over the Ruhr. On that date it is expected Germany will be declared in default of the payment of gold indemnity due them.

Must Not Encroach

EDISON PLANT AT EAGLE ROCK IS FIRE SWEPT

Damage Estimated Close to Million Dollars; Chief Price Slightly Injured

The most destructive fire of similar nature ever occurring in this section gutted the big, fine, twelve-story power house of the Southern California Edison company in Eagle Rock Canyon last night. The damage is estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000. Figures approximating the loss will not be available for some time, according to officials of the company.

The fire was caused, according to employes of the company on duty at the plant, by the explosion of one of the twelve lighting arrestors, due to a short circuit caused by an overload on the Los Angeles line.

Each of the arrestors contain 150 gallons of oil, and when the explosion occurred burning oil was scattered over the arrestor next in line and spread rapidly to the others. The result was that in a few moments the entire east end of the building was in flames.

City in Darkness

The explosion occurred about 9 o'clock, and immediately threw Eagle Rock and this vicinity into darkness. Power and lights were off until a connection was made with the Los Angeles and Redondo Beach lines.

The Los Angeles and Eagle Rock fire departments responded to the call for assistance, and were on the scene within a short space of time. Their efforts were handicapped in a measure, owing to the nature of the fire, as the moment a stream struck the blaze it scattered the oil and seemed to encourage rather than check the flames.

A fire wall between the east and west halves of the building confined the fire to the one side of the building, otherwise, employes say, the entire structure might have been destroyed.

The fire departments, employes of the company, and thousands of volunteers remained on duty until early this morning, using every effort to check the flames. Near 9 o'clock this morning it was considered safe to withdraw the big force of fire fighters.

Clean Up Debris

A big force of men are now at work cleaning up the debris and attempting to ascertain the extent of the damage. The plant has been roped off to keep the public at a safe distance, as falling material is a constant menace to those who venture too near.

But one man was injured during the night, that being Chief Price. He was struck on the head by a falling piece of material but not seriously hurt.

The plant is said to be the largest structure of the kind in the entire west. It was built in 1912 at a cost of $3,000,000.

Economy Is Big Topic Saving Issue Not New Getting Better, Perhaps California Prosperous

By Gil A. Cowan

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 9.—Economy, keynote of the campaign by Governor Friend Richardson, still provides him with a topic to talk about. The legislature is being admonished to effect savings for the public's purse.

And the governor knows just where those savings must be made. Verily, he speaks with the wisdom of a Moses, for through his office of state treasurer he has handled the monies coming in and going out with a great deal of wonderment where it went to.

With the assistance of investigators he has found out where it has been going. Everyone knows he knows and the legislature undoubtedly is more than happy at the enlightenment. Therefore, his speech is more interesting not only to them, but to every citizen. Every line of it should be read if you value your dollars.

While it has been often asserted that the burden of taxation is shouldered on corporations in this state, the people pay it eventually and every cent saved by the administration will redound to the benefit of all of us.

This issue of economy is not a new one in California. During Governor Haight's administration the same campaign to cut the costs of government was waged—and with success, too. It seems strange to look at cartoons of about fifty years ago depicting the same situation which now exists.

In those days it was a million dollar government. Now it is a hundred times that amount, almost. Pretty good record, eh?

Dr. Emile Coue, according to latest advices, disclaims credit for effecting cures through the power of suggestion. We must give him credit for getting better day by day.

After the publicity given him will attract thousands to his shrine, he adroitly denies the stories and thereby paves the way to successful failure or fizzling success.

While no one courts either, there are many successful failures who never could qualify along ethical lines, but make more than their brothers who lay claim to a fizzling success.

The great prosperity in California is illustrated in Governor Stephens' last message by his reference to the banking situation, with 2,531,624 depositors in the state banks at the close of the last fiscal year, and total assets in the state banks, savings and commercial, of $1,657,940,000, an increase in five years since July 1, 1917, of $728,716,000, and an increase in the one year ending June 30, 1922, of $161,904,000.

Perhaps the most important work before the legislature this session insofar as the south is concerned is the matter of reapportionment.

The north—meaning the bay district—already has started the hue and cry that a re-division of present districts will cut the "cow counties" out of a few votes.

Of course, that is camouflage to gain the support of "the balance of power" and hold Los Angeles and environs at arm's length.

Wonder how it would seem to these aforesaid cow counties' not to have Southern California's great taxable wealth to build their highways and pay half of the costs of state government?

A Sacramento paper accredits the north with wanting reapportionment on the basis of area—not population. That repudiates the principle of government by the people and permits private interests to get a strangle hold in politics through the sparsely populated communities.

Southern California representatives are going to demand that the constitution be complied with and a redivision made—but just whether it will be done remains to be seen. It is an old story.

More than eight millions of dollars were collected from motor vehicles in licenses during the year 1922, according to reports made public by Charles Chenu, superintendent of that department.

Inspectors collected approximately $150,000 in delinquent fees, it is reported and the department operated on a basis of 8 per cent of the total. That is a good record and the income tax officials might find out how Mr. Chenu handles his work so economically!

Really, it is a pleasure to pay a motor vehicle license tax and if the trucks and motor carriers could be assessed proportionately sufficient revenue could be raised to maintain California's highways, is is asserted.

A bill is to be introduced in this session of the legislature putting a higher tax on the motor carriers, who are determined to fight any such measure. They have an able "lobby" on the job at the capitol, while the public, which would benefit by the bill's passage, have only the legislators. It would seem wise for the people to impress the assemblymen and senators with their desires in such matters, thus counteracting the work of lobbyists, or proving that the latter are truly representative.

Withdrawal of United States troops from the Rhine seems most advisable in view of the French intention to occupy the Ruhr district. In fact, America can well afford to be out of European politics and reparations meetings for it is merely a waste of money.

This country gained nothing, as compared with Britain from the world war, and about the only thing to be said is that we have the regard of the German people and the respect of the Russians.

Births

Mrs. L. A. Blakney of 1237 North Columbus avenue is the mother of a daughter born last night, Monday, January 8, 1922 at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

A daughter was born this morning, Tuesday, January 9, 1923 at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Riggs of 1141 Melrose street.

They call it good liquor now if it has sufficient kick to make one forget how rotten it is.

The French may thank the Americans for assistance rendered, but wonder why we do not act as collectors, while the British press vilify Uncle Sam as a Shylock.

It is a strange world, but human nature is the same about all the time. Can't help but think of the policeman who tried to stop an Irishman from beating his wife. "Bridget knocked the cop for a row of doghouses," according to the alley rat who told the story of what happened.

The best way to avoid trouble is to not be "among those present." If the American troops are doing fatigue duty in the Phillipines or Panama, they won't be fighting on the Rhine over "how much is a mark worth?"

Glendale Youths in 'Tiger Girl' Hunt

Vernon Snively, of 106 East Maple avenue, and James Gibson, are two Glendale youths who had the very novel experience of being members of the party with the Los Angeles officers Saturday night in the raid on Chinatown in search of the escaped murderess, Mrs. Clara Phillips. Mr. Gibson was the first interne that has been taken with officers on a raid of that kind, and went equipped with his first aid kit and also a six-shooter, as serious trouble was anticipated in case the escaped prisoner was found. Mr. Snively represented the revenue department in search of narcotics. While a large quantity of booze was confiscated, there was not as much action as the party expected.

The first "foreign invasion" of the United States for the 1923 sports season is scheduled for the end of this month when Cavalier Ugo Frigerie of Italy, world walking champion lands in New York. In the last Olympic games the Italian outclassed the field in both of the walking events and set a new Olympic record in the 3000 meter event.

The visit of the world-famed Italian, "heel and toe" champion is bound to have a beneficial effect on the "walking" department of track events in this country. The United States has never been classed as having walkers of the first grade. The only time this country won at Olympic games "walk" was at the in-between Olympics held at Athens in 1906. That year an American, George Bonhag, won the 1500 meter walk. Bonhag never made any pretentions to being a champion walker, but confined most of his efforts to long distance running.

At the last Olympics J. B. Pearman of this country took second to the Italian Frigerio in the 10,000 meter event, while Remor also of this country, took third to Frigerio and Parker, the latter of Australia, in the 3000 meter walk. At the present time Willie Plant of New York is the leading exponent of walking in this country, but he has been through a genuine siege of illness and it is doubtful if he will be able to show to advantage against the visiting world champion. The coming tour of the Italian will open in New York on January 31 and it will be his first experience of indoor competition.

Unquestionably the fastest walker unearthed in recent years was the great Rasmussen of Denmark, who today holds innumerable world's records in the metric distances. G. H. Golding, some years ago the greatest walker, a Canadian, holds various records in miles, and it was the 3000 meter record Olympic games mark held by Golding that Frigerio broke in the latst Olympics. In the 10,000 meter walk the Italian failed to break Golding's record by more than a minute and a half, and while the Italian is today hailed as the world champion, there are many who doubt if he has the speed of Rasmussen, the Dane, or Golding, the Canuck.

Years ago this country was recognized as having some phenomenal walkers. Back in the early '80's the names of Merrill, Murray and George Baird were famed throughout the world as the greatest trio of walkers living. Then came E. D. Lange of the Manhattan A. C. of New York, closely followed by T. Sherman of the New York A. C., and then immediately followed S. Liebgold of the Pastime A. C., the latter being considered the last of the great walkers this country has produced. From 1892 to 1896 he won the three-mile title and from 1894 to 1897 the one-mile title. Then the A. U. discarded these two events until 1907, or approximately ten years. Then, if ever a man came back, Liebgold did, and he again won the titles for four years straight when the younger generation came along and dethroned him.

The visit of the Italian is bound to have a good effect on the standards of walking in this country and may be the means of helping develop an American champion for the 1924 Olympic games.

Landis Reinstates Washington Player

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today reinstated James O'Neill, who went on the Washington club's voluntary list because of illness.

"Since his retirement he has not played with or against any ineligibles," Landis said.

Floyd Johnson, the young White Hope with a heavy punch and a wicked uppercut, swings into action again this week when he meets that ol' battle-scarred veteran, Bill Brennan, at Madison Square Garden.

Johnson—hailed by many as the man who will eventually wear the crown Dempsey is guarding—is a 1923 model heavyweight from the cornfed state of Iowa. He is a big strapping fellow, weight 195, height 6 ft. 1 in., blue eyed, round chin, big feet, and hairy hands with a punch in both of them. He was born in Des Moines 22 years ago but took to roving and was a box car tourist in his day. West and northwest he went, and his first fighting was done out on the coast where he was a steel worker. He had some fights with varying success before he came east.

He has certainly been toppling them over here. It may be that coaching has had something to do with his improvement, for Jack Dempsey and Li'l Arthur Johnson have both taken a great deal of interest in him. Dempsey especially has spent a number of afternoons giving Floyd pointiers. And Johnson made a mighty good student, for he has more than the usual allotment of gray matter possessed by prize fighters stored under his hat.

In Bill Brennan this youngster is meeting as good a heavyweight as there is in the land—with the exception of the champion, of course. Ol' Bill has fought 'em all and licked most of them. Brennan stayed 12 rounds with Dempsey in their last fight in the Garden. In that scrap he surprised a multitude of fans by the way he left-handed the champ, jabbing him almost at will with his port fin.

IF Johnson can get by Brennan, he'll step a long way towards a crack at the million dollar crown.

There can be no doubt as to the sincerity of Strangler "Ed" Lewis, champion heavyweight wrestler of the world, in his desire to meet Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion boxer, in a mixed match. Furthermore after you have listened to Lewis talk on the subject, one is impressed that he takes such a match seriously and is convinced that he can render Dempsey helpless in one of his holds before the boxer can knock him out.

Those who pretend to know, say that Dempsey is tired of his long enforced idleness and would welcome any sort of diversion. Dempsey, they say, would close for such a match with Lewis, but his advisers are not so enthusiastic about the matter. Naturally, they think that if Lewis did succeed in tying Dempsey up in a knot, it would detract a lot from the glory that now surrounds the man who is considered unbeatable.

A unique golf tournament recently was concluded by the Coronado Country club, California. All the contestants were required to be under twelve years of age. The result was one that astonished their elders and proved conclusively that America now is beginning to breed a home product that is going to count sooner or later in international competition—as it already has begun to do, and which is being acknowledged by our cousins across the sea. A feature of the tournament was the play of a little eight-year-old chap by the name of Brennan Davin. When Brennan came on the course, he was topped, as to height, by his bag of golf clubs. Those who watched the youngster remarked his natural swing and poise.

Depending on the result of legislation to be presented in the states of Washington and Oregon, and which it is hoped will carry successfully, tentative plans are being made for racing in the northwest, together with British Columbia. The bills to be presented in the northern law-making bodies call for the appointment of racing commissions to control the running of the thoroughbreds, as in Maryland, Kentucky, Nevada and other states. It is planned to have short sessions of racing at both Portland and Seattle, the ponies then to be shipped to British Columbia.

Limitations on the number of days for the meets is considered advisable, say about 21 days, and the pari-mutuel system of betting would be used. Citizens of Victoria recently voted in favor of this system of wagering, where the Willows track would be used for the meet in that city.

Major and Minor Leagues May Start Strife Over Draft Recognition

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—President William H. McCarthy of the Pacific coast league today had received no reply to his telegram to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis upon which a major league baseball war may hinge.

McCarthy in his telegram demanded information on the reported adoption of two amendments by the big leagues affecting the draft. One is said to increase the number of optional players carried by each club from eight to fifteen, and the other to bring under the draft all players released to the minors from the the major league circuits.

Two Days Remain

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Major league baseball clubs have only two days remaining in which to transfer players to the minor leagues under the old major-minor league agreement. On January 10, the new system, whereby the majors are pledged to sell players to the minor leagues only on agreement that the men in question be made subject to the draft, will go into effect.

It is expected that the leagues not recognizing the draft, the Pacific coast league, the American association and the International league, with two smaller circuits, will fight the plan and reprisals will be frequent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. — Jess Willard, fat and 40, and fistic, is due to arrive in New York City this afternoon on the trail of a return bout with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship. "Seek and ye shall find" says the good book, but before Jess has concluded his visit, his faith in proverbs may have a bad rally, as the fellow said.

There are many influences obstructing an immediate realization of Jess' plans. In the first place, the public is only casually interested in Willard as a heavyweight pugilist. This means he must build up his reputation anew and this cannot be done with the aid of a gymnasium workout. He must take on some leading contenders and incidentally he must beat the gentlemen in question within an inch of his waist band. Otherwise the public will sniff a disdainfull sniff and let it go at that.

Jessica must also reckon with the law terrible of this fair commonwealth. This decrees that no middle aged citizen, i. e., exceeding 38 years can engage in the business of box fighting locally. Willard is 40 if he is a minute.

There is, of course, no age limit in New Jersey, but here again our noble person may be blocked by a working agreement that exists between the two state commissions, each recognizing and abiding by the others' rulings.

Open Golf 'Champ' Played Off Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Macdonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood met this afternoon at the San Francisco Golf and Country club links to settle the California open golf championship.

Smith and Kirkwood tied in the competition last week and met this afternoon for 18-holes' play to settle the title. Ideal golfing weather prevailed and par scores—something absent in the championship match—was predicted.

If you have severe frontal headache with a feeling that something is twitching or pulling at the eyeballs—a dull, aching pain in the back, accompanied by an occasional shooting pain in the side — numbness or tingling in the fingers or "stitches" of pain here and there, the chances are that your trouble is Neuritis.

No matter where your pain is located, you can get prompt relief without taking bromides, narcotics or other dope. Just apply Tysmol over the part that hurts, and in a few minutes you will be rid of the torture. Tysmol is guaranteed harmless. It helps to soothe and heal the weak, inflamed nerves.

HEALTH COMES FIRST

OF ALL THINGS in your home, from cellar to roof, what is the most important to convenience and health?

Stop and think—

The furniture, rugs, drapes, paintings? The hardwood floors, interior finish, the decorating?

No, none of these.

It is the plumbing.

Plumbing safeguards the health of the entire household. It is as essential to have GOOD plumbing as it is to carry life or fire insurance. Health officials will vouch for this; statistics prove it.

Therefore give to the selection of plumbing as great care as is given to the selection of the furnishings and interior decorations of your home.

Attend to it personally.

Do not depend upon a middleman or a fly-by-night contractor who is thinking more of his discounts or commissions than of your comfort and health.

Certified plumbing work and materials may be obtained by selecting members of the Sanitary Development League.

They are pledged to maintain the highest ideals and standards of the industry—to deal squarely.

They prize their reputations more highly than they do your dollars.

THE PASSING SHOW

Do you like to study human nature, its reactions and inter-actions?

Have you learned that there can be a whole lot of fun in watching and studying and analyzing the show of life as well as in taking an active part in it?

If you have, you have made an investment as essential as money in the bank to insure a contented middle age and old age.

And if you have, you have surely found out what an interesting thing it is to get the story of any event from two people, who, for some reasons, have different reactions to it.

This is the sort of thing I mean.

A woman I know told me about a Christmas celebration which took place in her home town. She did not like the family who were prime movers in putting through this community celebration, and from her description you would have thought the affair was a complete failure:

A Nuisance Or—

"Everyone had so much to do anyway and it was a nuisance to be asked to do a lot more. Of course it was a fine chance for Ruth M. (daughter of the house) to sing carols, but her voice isn't strong enough for outdoor singing. Mrs. M.'s brother was Santa Claus and drove around the common in a sleigh. Everyone almost froze, but I dare say the M.'s had a good time. It was the kind of a thing they like and it gave them a chance to be prominent."

As it happens I know another woman from that same town and the next time I met her I made it a point to ask about the celebration.

The Loveliest Thing

"My dear, it was the loveliest thing! The whole town turned out. It was the most really Christmassy thing we ever had. And the way the M's worked. They trained the children to sing the carols, and they got the electric light company to wire the tree and they did all the little detail work that has to be done behind the scenes in anything like that. And then Ruth sank and she has the sweetest voice! I just stood there and wept when she sang Helige Nacht. It made my whole Christmas different and sweeter and I heard several people say the same."

Now, that was the same celebration seen from two angles. Would you ever recognize it?

Scarcely. Yet there is not so much difference in facts as in the selection of which facts to play up, and in a description of reaction to facts.

Liars or Not?

A court reporter told me that the most interesting thing about the divorce courts was to listen to her friends swear to things that made him out a blackguard and her an angel, and then to hear his friends testify to facts that seemed to prove the opposite. "Some of them must have been awful liars," he said.

Perhaps so, but not necessarily. But their choice of facts and their reaction to them was certainly different.

People are queer kittle kattle, and if one learns to accept them and to study them one can get a lot of fun and interest out of the passing show.

COUNCIL TABLE

Q. What is the proper temperature of oven for baking white and entire wheat bread?

A. If the dough is as light as it should be (even with top of pan) the oven should be 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Medium sized loaves should bake for forty-five minutes, and the entire wheat bread for five minutes longer.

Q. I have fried doughnuts in vegetable oil and want to clarify it so can fry other things in it. Will you kindly give directions?

A. Put the vegetable oil in frying kettle or frying pan and beat it, then add one Irish potato cut into thin slices and fry them until crisp, skim out the potatoes and strain the vegetable oil, when it will be ready to use.

Q. Please tell me how to whip cream from the canned milk?

A. Place the can in a sauce pan, cover with cold water and bring to boiling point. Remove can from water and quickly cool it on ice. (It should stand on ice for at least one hour). Pour contents into a cold bowl and whip with rotary egg beater, adding sugar and the desired flavoring when brought to a stiff froth. Whipped cream made from canned milk will not be as thick and smooth as that made from fresh cream.

Q. What can be used as a substitute for whipped cream in making desserts, etc.?

A. The stiffly beaten whites of eggs can very frequently be used in place of whipped cream in moulded desserts, etc.

Q. When crisp toast is dipped in salt water to soften, should the water be warm, hot or cold?

A. The water should be boiling hot. When a moist toast is wanted for serving under certain foods, if the toast is placed in a steamer and put over hot water for a few minutes it will be found to contain just the right amount of moisture (not wet).

Q. Do you recommend a cooked or an uncooked Mayonnaise as a rule—for more general use?

A. Generally speaking, the cooked salad dressing is to be preferred for every-day use. I prefer the French dressing for the dinner salad, but I know a great many persons do not like an oil dressing. For these, and children, a simple cooked salad dressing is easily made and it is inexpensive as well.

Q. When using canned asparagus for a salad, should it be cooked before using or can it be used right out of the can?

A. All canned vegetables, fruit, fish and the like, are cooked in the canning process and are ready to use from the can. All canned goods have a better flavor if they are opened, turned into a dish and allowed to stand in the fresh air for one hour. They can then be chilled for salad, or other cold dishes, or heated for hot dishes. The above suggestion for salad dishes, applies to asparagus salad referred to.

Q. When do you salt chicken when frying it?

A. Chicken should be cleaned, cut into small pieces; washed; dried between towels, sprinkled with salt and pepper, rolled in flour or meal and quickly browned (without scorching) in hot fat, butter, lard or any other preferred cooking fat. After the chicken is nice and brown, add one-fourth cup hot water, cover closely, reduce gas flame and cook slowly until chicken is tender, adding a very little more water during the cooking if necessary, to prevent burning.

Finding of Skeleton Develops Mystery

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—Solution of the identity of the skeleton found in Suzanna pass, identified as that of Willis Raymond, fugitive from justice, developed another mystery today.

Deputy Sheriff Jones, who declares the skeleton is that of Raymond, was furnished with information that Raymond was a pal of Herbert Wilson, so-called millionaire bandit minister, who made a sensational break from the county jail some time ago, but was recaptured.

In an effort to solve Raymond's death, the sheriff's office is working on the theory that part of his body was carried away to prevent identification.

Wonder what a Mexican bandit leader thinks of an American mob leader.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

HYPERACIDITY—No. 11

Hyperacidity is one of the most frequent of the functional disorders of the stomach. Hyper means over and hypo means under, so hyperacidity would mean an excess acidity, and hypoacidity the reverse. When we say functional disorders we mean a disorder of the working ability of the organ rather than of the organ itself.

If functional disorders continue for any length of time then there is an organic disorder, or a disorder of the organ itself, brought about. Therefore if hyperacidity, a functional disorder of the stomach, continues long enough you can logically expect an organic disorder. So we will have to get after your hyperacidity.

Hyperacidity is one of the most frequent of the functional disorders because so many people eat hurriedly, so many people overeat and so many people eat unbalanced diets.

As I told you yesterday, smoking and drinking and emotional excesses also cause this condition. Sometimes it is caused by a reflex action from disorders elsewhere in the body, especially in the gall bladder, in the appendix and the nervous system. The greater proportion of hyperacidity, however, is probably due to dietetic errors.

Usually when there is hyperacidity there is an increase in the saliva. This shows an intelligent effort on the part of nature to neutralize the acid, for the saliva i salkaline. In fact, even the excess acid may be an intelligent effort of nature to combat poisons that are produced in the body.

Roger found in experiments on dogs and rabbits that when intestinal putrefaction is active, the toxins absorbed are excreted into stomach in large quantities. This explains how many headaches are relieved by vomiting or washing out the stomach. In another series of experiments the results show that in hyperacidity toxicity is much increased. So this proved that the toxicity was not due to the acid. In fact, it has been shown that the gastric juice does destroy a number of the intestinal toxins.

Thus you can see that the thing to do is not to overcome the acid temporarily by taking alkalies, but to overcome the habits that have produced the poisons.

A meat diet gives temporary relief by neutralizing the hydrochloric acid because the meat binds the hydrochloric acid. At the same time meat stimulates the acid secretion more, and great meat eaters are especially liable to suffer from hyperacidity.

It has been shown that constipation will both cause and result from hyperacidity. So here we have what is known as the vicious circle.

The amount of acid formed in the stomach during the digestion of a meal depends chiefly upon the character of the food. Animal foodstuffs, or protein, produces a higher degree of acid than do vegetable foods. Next to meat, milk and its products stimulate the acid-forming glands of the stomach because of the large amount of protein in them. Cane sugar excites the acid-forming glands to a very high degree.

Hot foods not only overexcite the glands, but when they are excessively hot they may injure the gastric mucous membrane so that ultimately an ulceration may be caused. Acids, alcohol, tobacco, tea, coffee, condiments, and especially common salt, have to be avoided by those who suffer from hyperacidity.

Olive oil and other fats, especially cream and butter, tend to check the formation of hydrochloric acid and can be freely used. Hyperacidity will disappear when the exciting cause is removed.

If you do not get relief from your hyperacidity by following out my suggestions it is best that you see a stomach specialist.

PLUMBING FIRMS ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Southern California Dealers Sending in Applications For Membership

With members of the Sanitary Development League of southern California labeled in the public mind as plumbing concerns in whom confidence may be reposed without doubt firms affiliated with that industry in every city in this end of the state are applying for a place on the membership roll.

This as a direct result of the advertising campaign begun a little before Christmas by the league in southern California newspapers. Planned for the indirect purposes of educating the public in the ideals and purposes of the league the campaign has had the direct result of increasing its strength. Careful inquiry into the reputation, responsibility and trustworthiness of more than a score of applicants for membership is being made by the secretary, Henry Boynton.

"Membership in the league is a certificate of character," he declares. "Every member stands back of every other member and we are sure of every man before his name is put on the roster."

Rich Haul Is Made By Chicago Bandits

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Bonds valued at $202,000 were stolen in the raid safe-blowers made on the real estate office of City Comptroller George F. Harding, it was learned. At the time of the robbery Harding reported the loss at $14,580.

A circular sent out today by Chief of Police Charles C. Fitzmorris revealed the loss was nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

BEAUTY CHATS

by Edna Kent Forbes

ANSWERED LETTERS

Mary Louise—The number of treatments required to dissolve a mole depends upon its size and locality. Even an unusually large mole on the body can be eliminated after several electric needle treatments. Those on the face are handled more cautiously, a lighter current being used which necessitates more treatments. Fortunately the larger moles rarely appear on the face and the smaller ones will not detract from the beauty of most complexions. They give contrast, making the skin look clearer, much like the effect attained by the old time beauty mark, a tiny piece of court plaster. Whenever it is necessary to have the electric needle treatment it should be given by a dermatologist or some doctor who includes this work in his general practice. It is not done any more at the beauty parlors. The expense varies in different localities, from two to five or more dollars a treatment.

Mrs. T. B. Jones — Keeping your feet in a healthy condition will not need very much of an outlay in money if you learn to take care of them yourself. This will mean a generous use of the file whenever there are any callous spots appearing. The soles of the feet should be rubbed with a little oil when there is a tendency to dryness of the skin. These files are also used over the top of a corn; if done regularly this filing will keep a corn from enlarging for an indefinite period.

Constant Reader—As you have such an abundance of hair, why worry over the fact that you cannot keep it in curl? Adopt some style of dressing it that will be both distinctive and becoming, wearing it without any attempt at curling. The coronet braid makes a charming style in such cases as yours.

Esther K. F.—You can never be too old to cultivate a growth of hair. The pilocarpine tonic will help the condition even though you are past 70 years of age. The old hair which continues to fall out is likely dead and should be combed as if to make room for a new growth. I knew an old lady past 80 who could always encourage a fresh hair growth, whenever she felt that she required a greater amount, by simply massaging her scalp for ten minutes each night. It is an unfortunate thing that all elderly people do not realize what they could do to keep themselves as lovely as this one did with her beautiful white hair.

Philip K. — To overcome this tendency to chilblains you should maintain a healthy circulation in the feet. Never place the feet before a hot fire if they are cold, as the sudden change in temperature will always aggravate the condition. However, if the chilblains are itching and burning, as they are in bad cases, you can relieve the trouble almost at once by chilling them suddenly. A heroic treatment is to thrust the feet into snow for a few minutes. Relief is sometimes attained by painting the swollen places with iodine.

Tomorrow — Darkening Eyelashes.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Colorado Is Facing Most Prosperous Era

DENVER, Jan. 9. — Roseate prosperity is predicted for the Rocky Mountain region in numerous gigantic building and construction programs outlined for the coming year.

Expenditures approximating $100,000,000 are provided for in new building, railroad expansion and highway construction in Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

While authorized expenditures in some cases cover three and four year programmes, much of the work will be completed during 1923.

A program involving the spending of $20,000,000 in the next three years in Colorado is announced by the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad for new rails, increased shop facilties and equipment.

The Colorado State Highway Department's program for four years totals $20,000,000, and other large expenditures scheduled are the Moffat Tunnel, $6,720,000; United States forest service roads. $4,000,000; Pueblo flood conservancy, $4,000,000.

Denver's building permits passed the $15,000,000 mark in 1922, and it is expected the figure for dwellings and business buildings in the city in 1923 will exceed $16,000,000.

A bond issue of $6,150,000 for construction of additional schools in Denver was recently authorized by the taxpayers, and work will commence on this project early in the year.

The Burlington Railroad is putting up new shops here to cost $2,500,000, and two hospitals at a total cost of $2,500,000 will be built during 1923.

Extensive building programs are also reported from various cities in Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The vicinity of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard is likely to be congested with businesses in the next three years, according to C. L. Brenkman of 1424 South San Fernando road. He believes that the widening of Forest avenue is a matter of foresight. "The public at large," he remarked, "will be benefited by the widening of any street in Glendale."

There are lots of ducks in Imperial valley, according to Harry Schaeffer of 1519 South Central avenue who returned Sunday night from a three days' hunting trip. He was accompanied by Charles Brooks in whose automobile the trip was made.

J. A. Malch and family of 414 Fernando court motored to Santa Monica Sunday.

S. W. Brown of 138 Sumner street, Eagle Rock, is proud of the fact that he is now an American citizen. Mr. Brown came to the United States from Lindsey, a suburb of Toronto, Canada. He is the manager of the S. W. Brown Beverage Company.

Santa Barbara was almost reached Sunday afternoon in the new sedan belonging to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Goudie of 324 West Elk street. They were accompanied by their son-in-law, daughter and baby, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gordon of the same address. The reason they didn't reach their destination was because they headed the car back home again.

The necessity of having more room has led to the expansion of the quarters at 1414 South San Fernando road by the Tyre Shop. I. M. Irby and family have moved from this address to 1508 South Brand boulevard. J. M. Winchester of Los Angeles, who is associated with Mr. Irby in this business, is making plans to establish a bicycle repair shop in connection with the vulcanizing establishment.

The South Glendale Motor Service at 1416 South San Fernando road was closed Sunday afternoon while H. F. Hall and M. M. Hall enjoyed themselves at Venice.

The first picnic which she has been able to go to on account of her health since uast August was much enjoyed Sunday in Verdugo park by Mrs. George M. Stull of 1424 South San Fernando road. Mr. and Mrs. Stull were accompanied by their two children, Wesley and Margaret.

Pasadena in the morning and Venice in the afternoon was the Sunday itinerary of Mrs. Gabe W. Cox and her daughter, Mrs. Juanita Everett of 1425 South Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurel Conner of 3713 Seneca street motored to Monrovia Sunday. Mr. Conner is proprietor of the White House meat market at 446 West Los Feliz road.

Venice was visited Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mueller of 1417 South Central avenue and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Mueller of 448 West Wilson avenue.

Three-quarters of an hour was required Sunday afternoon for B. G. Jackson to drive his automobile from Los Feliz road to his home at 216 Eulalia avenue via Brand boulevard because of traffic congestion. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and their small son, Wesley, spent the day at Ocean Park.

S. S. Gilhuly of 342 El Bonita avenue, who specializes in insurance and Southern Glendale commercial and industrial property, has transferred his office from 1257 South Central avenue to 1801 South Brand boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McBurney, who operate the South Glendale Bakery at 1508 South San Fernando road, spent Sunday afternoon visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Springer of 1270 Pine avenue, Long Beach. Both families are from Fremont, Iowa, and are looking forward to the Southern California Iowa picnic.

"One of the finest trips I ever took," exclaimed C. H. Ambrosch yesterday in his office at 1727 South Brand boulevard, commenting upon his motor trip Sunday to Perris. Mr. and Mrs. Ambrosch of 644 North Pacific avenue were accompanied by their two sons, Harold Ambrosch and Richard Ambrosch. "There is some mighty nice scenery along the way now," remarked Mr. Ambrosch. "The oranges are turning dark yellow and the groves certainly look nice."

C. D. Gulick has sold his home at 1237 South Central avenue to W. F. Yeo of 334 El Bonita avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Caswell of 230 North Central avenue spent Sunday afternoon on the golf links of the Sunset Canyon Country club. Mr. Caswell is general manager of the Gateway market.

Book Reviews

Glendalians who have a curiosity to get a deeper glimpse into Emile Coue's popular formula for happiness and good health, "Every day in every way, I'm getting better and better are to have the opportunity at the Glendale Public library, where one of the newest volumes on the shelves is "Emile Coue's Method of the Practice of Autosuggestion," explained, interpreted and simplified by C. Harry Brooks.

Another book a bit nearer to the hearts of Glendale people is "Atolls of the Sun," by Frederick O'Brien, nationally known author, but most of all a resident of Glendale at 501 South Pacific avenue. Mr. O'Brien's books, "White Shadows in the South Seas" and "Mystic Isles of the South Seas" have both been greatly enjoyed by Glendale friends and admirers of the author and will be equally charmed by this new book. Mr. O'Brien returned recently from a long stay in the South Seas and during his visit spent several days in Glendale. At that time he visited the Public Library and autographed a copy of his "White Shadows."

"Atolls of the Sun" deals with those blazing coral wreaths upon the equatorial Pacific, known as the "Dangerous Archipelagos," which are among the amazing habitations of man.

And the kiddies haven't been slighted in the new books at the library, for only yesterday a charming juvenile volume of "Peter Pan for Little People" was received. It is a delightful little book with fifteen color plates and twenty-four black and white illustrations by Alice B. Woodward.

Some more of the adult books are:

"Woman as Decoration," a costume book by Emily Burbank, which critics say no one can read it understandingly and not become a better dressed woman for so doing.

"Laughter Limited" by Nina Wilcox Putnam.

"The Secret of the Storm Country" by Grace Miller White, author of "Tess of the Storm Country." This new book is a sequel to "Tess" and with its recent revival by Mary Pickford the book assumes a greater interest.

Another book by Grace Miller White is "Storm Country Polly."

"Caravans by Night" by Harry Hervey.

"Chanting Wheels" by Hubbard Hutchinson.

"Scarhaven Keep," another J. S. Fletcher detective yarn.

"In His Image" by William Jennings Bryan, a challenge to Darwinism.

"On Tiptoe," a romance of the Redwoods by Stewart Edward White.

"Gentle Julia" by Booth Tarkington.

"Men of Iron" by Howard Pyle.

"Through the Shadows" by Cyril Allington, a story based on an English house party for an American girl.

"The Circle," a comedy in three acts by W. Somerset Maugham.

"A Minister of Grace" by Margaret Widdemer.

"In the Morning of Time" by Charles G. D. Roberts, a novel of prehistoric times.

"The First Person Singular" by William Rose Benet.

"The Hairy Ape," a play, "Anna Christie," a drama, and "The First Man," a story, all contained in a volume bearing the name of Eugene O'Neill

And, lastly "When Knighthood Was in Flower" by Charles Major. This is one of the Marion Davies series and the illustrattions are taken from the photoplay in which Miss Davies is now starring.

RATS ATE COURT RECORDS

An unusual appointment was made recently in Montreal, Quebec, Canada, when an official ratcatcher was assigned to duty at the Montreal courthouse. The new office was considered when it was found that stenographers' notes had been eaten by rats during the night, and that a gown and silk hat belonging to one of the judges had been destroyed. Because of the disappearance of some important records, civil suits involving valuable property had to be delayed. The authorities took the situation in hand when "Exhibit A" in a murder trial was eaten, and, because of the lack of evidence to convict, the prisoner was liberated.—Detective Story Magazine.

Flannagan hurtling against the opposite side exerted his noblest efforts to force an entrance to the room; but Billy Byrne's great weight held firm as Gibraltar. His mind revolved various wild plans of escape; but none bade fare to offer the slightest foothold to hope.

The men at the table were clamoring for an explanation of the interruption. Two of them were approaching Billy with the avowed intention of "truning him out," when he turned his head suddenly toward them.

"Can de beef, you poor boobs," he cried. "Dere's a bunch o' dicks out dere—de joint's been pinched."

Instantly pandemonium ensued. Cards, chips and money were swept as by magic from the board. A dozen dog-eared and filthy magazines and newspapers were snatched from a hiding place beneath the table, and in the fraction of a second the room was transformed from a gambling place to an innocent reading-room.

Billy grinned broadly. Flannagan had ceased his efforts to break down the door, and was endeavoring to persuade Billy that he might as well come out quietly and submit to arrest. Byrne had drawn his revolver again. Now he motioned to Bridge to come to his side.

"Follow me," he whispered. "Don't move 'til I move—then move sudden." Then, turning to the door again, "You big stiff," he cried, "you couldn't take a crip to a hospital, let alone takin' Billy Byrne to the still. Beat it, before I come out an' spread your beezer across your map."

If Billy had desired to arouse the ire of Detective Sergeant Flannagan by this little speech he succeeded quite as well as he could have hoped. Flannagan commenced to growl and threaten, and presently again hurled himself against the door.

Instantly Byrne wheeled and fired a single shot into the arc lamp, the shattered carbon rattled to the table with fragments of the globe, and Billy Byrne stepped quickly to one side. The door flew open and Sergeant Flannagan dove headlong into the darkened room. A foot shot out from behind the opened door, and Flannagan, striking it, sprawled upon his face amidst the legs of the literary lights who held dog-eared magazines rightside up or upside down, as they chanced to have picked them up.

Simultaneously Billy Byrne and Bridge dodged through the open doorway, banged the door behind them, and sped across the barroom toward the street.

As Flannagan shot into their midst the men at the table leaped to their feet and bolted for the doorway; but the detective was up and after them so quickly that only two succeeded in getting out of the room. One of these generously slammed the door in the faces of his fellows, and there they pulled and hauled at each other until Flannagan was among them.

In the pitch darkness he could recognize no one; but to be on the safe side he hit out promiscuously until he had driven them all from the door, then he stood with his back toward it—the inmates of the room his prisoners.

Thus he remained for a moment threatening to shoot at the first sound of movement in the room, then he opened the door again, and stepping just outside ordered the prisoners to file out one at a time.

As each man passed him Flannagan scrutinized his face, and it was not until they had all emerged and he had re-entered the room with a light that he discovered that once again his quarry had eluded him. Detective Sergeant Flannagan was peeved.

The sun smote down upon a dusty road. A heat-haze lay upon the arid land that stretched away upon either hand toward gray-brown hills. A little adobe hut, backed by a few squalid outbuildings, stood out, a screaming highlight in its coat of whitewash, against a background that was garish with light.

Two men plodded along the road. Their coats were off, the brims of their tattered hats were pulled down over eyes closed to mere slits against sun and dust.

One of the men, glancing up at the distant hut, broke into verse:

Yet then the sun was shining down, a-blazing on the little town,
A mile or so 'way down the track a-dancing in the sun.
But somehow, as I waited there, there came a shiver in the air;
"The birds are flying south," he says. "The winter has begun."

His companion looked up at him who quoted.

"There ain't no track," he said, "an' that 'dobe shack don't look much like a town; but otherwise his Knibbs has got our number all right, all right. We are the birds a-flyin' south, and Flannagan was the shiver in the air. Flannagan is a reg'lar frost. Gee! but I betcha dat guy's sore."

"Why is it, Billy," asked Bridge after a moment's silence, "that upon occasion you speak king's English after the manner of the boulevard, and again after that of the back alley? Sometimes you say 'that' and 'dat' in the same sentence. Your conversational clashes are numerous. Surely something or someone has cramped your original style."

"I was born and brought up on 'dat,'" explained Billy. "She taught me the other line of talk. Sometimes I forget. I had about twenty years of the other and only one of hers, and twenty to one is a long shot—more apt to lose than win."

"'She,' I take it, is Penelope," mused Bridge, half to himself. "She must have been a fine girl."

"'Fine' isn't the right word," Billy corrected him. "If a thing's fine there may be something finer, and then something else finest. She was better than finest. She—she was—why, Bridge, I'd have to be a walking dictionary to tell you what she was."

Bridge made no reply, and the two trudged on toward the white-washed hut in silence for several minutes. Then Bridge broke it:

And you, my sweet Penelope, out there somewhere you wait for me
With buds of roses in your hair and kisses on your mouth.

Billy sighed and shook his head. "There ain't no such luck for me," he said. "She's married to another gink now."

They came at last to the hut, upon the shady side of which they found a Mexican squatting, puffing upon a cigaret, while upon the doorstep sat a woman, evidently his wife, busily engaged in the preparation of some manner of foodstuff contained in a large shallow vessel. About them played a couple of half-naked children. A baby sprawled upon a blanket just within the doorway.

The man looked up, suspiciously, as the two approached. Bridge saluted him in fairly understandable Spanish, asking for food, and telling the man that they had money with which to pay for a little—not much, just a little.

Daily NewsLetter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—David M. Church, London correspondent, writes of the low salary problem confronting members of parliament and the extremely delicate economic reasons which render their hopes of raising their own pay somewhat remote.

TOMORROW—Ellis H. Martin, San Francisco correspondent, writes of the probability that Mrs. Mae Hunt Nolan, wife of the late Congressman John I. Nolan, will succeed her husband in the national house of representatives. She will be a representative of labor.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Parliament is flirting with the delicate subject of raising its own salary.

Members of the House of Commons at present draw 400 pounds annually in salary, an amount equivalent to less than $2,000, and there is a general opinion that this should be raised to at least 1,000 pounds a year, or approximately $5,000.

Although the present salary hardly pays the expenses of a member of the House of Commons, there is some reluctance on the part of the leaders to increase their own salaries at the present time, when there is grave unrest throughout the country because of unemployment.

Any move to increase salaries of commoners will probably meet with opposition from members of the Labor party, who will urge that at a time when thousands of men are walking the streets without work Parliament can ill afford to spend the nation's money in increased legislative salaries. This will afford a real test of the sincerity of the Labor members, too, because of all members the Laborites are as a rule less able to live upon their salaries. The great majority of the Labor members are men who have given up their trades and businesses in order to serve in the House of Commons, and they find they are scarcely able to live upon their salaries. Many of them have given up all attempts at fulfilling some of the requisites of Members of Parliament, particularly those age old customs with regard to dress. Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor leader, appears in Commons garbed in a baggy tweed suit and offers a striking contrast to Bonar Law, who generally wears a cutaway coat with the customary striped trousers.

The Labor members of the House of Commons, as well as many other members who are "new poor," really need an increase in salary, but it is doubtful whether they will take it until the present unemployment distress has been relieved.

Ambassador Harvey gave London a thrill when he first came to London by driving a flivver, but he in turn gets a thrill every time there is a state procession and he sees the parade of state coaches used by various dignitaries and Ambassadors.

George M. Cohan is going to appear in London in one of his own plays and his first appearance is being awaited with considerable interest. Particular interest attaches to the reception Cohan will get from the London critics, who haven't seen any of his work for some time. Of late the London critics have been very harsh with American dramatists and actors, and have spared no efforts to convince the people of their fair foggy city that nothing good in the theatre can ever be expected to come out of America. "Ragtime is the only art the Americans have," the London critics claim, and it remains to be seen whether even George M. Cohan can show them wares which they will have to applaud. American motion pictures make wonderful progress in London, because British pictures are so wretched, but American drama has hard sledding, and the critics will applaud a most mediocre British production, while a good American production is thoroughly dissected with a good deal of venom, too.

The ice is broken. All England seems to be writing for the magazines and newspapers now. The introduction of American dollars into the coffers of English literary agents is probably responsible. England long knew that the Americans weren't very careful of their money, but they never dreamed that they would pay good money for written words so easily. Now the discovery has been made, almost everybody in England who has ever had his picture in the papers feels qualified to write upon any subject in the world and to offer it to American newspapers at fabulous prices.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND TOODLE'S SLIDE

Not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow was a beaver pond, and in a house of the pond lived Toodle and Noodle Flattail, the beaver boys. In summer Toodle and Noodle swam around the pond, the broad, flat tails sending them swimming through the water like steamboats. For their tails were like the propeller of a boat, you know.

"But it's winter now, and we can't swim," said Noodle to his brother Toodle as they ate some aspen bark in their house one day. Beavers live on bark, and they like that from the aspen tree better than any other, though they eat willow bark also.

"No, we can't have as much fun swimming in winter as we can in summer," said Toodle, "but I know what we can do."

"What can we do?" asked Noodle. "If you mean go out and swim in the ice cold water, I'm not going to." For beavers, unlike groundhogs and bears, don't curl up and sleep all winter. They keep awake in their houses, even though the houses are frozen fast in the ice. And when they need to, beavers can swim in the water under the ice. "But I'm not going to do that," said Noodle.

"Nobody asked you to," laughed Toodle. "I meant we can slide on the ice and have fun that way. Come on, I'm going to make a slide."

"Well, you make it and maybe I'll come out and slide on it," said Noodle. "I want to finish this bark first," and he kept on gnawing with his broad, flat teeth, which were like chisels the carpenter uses.

The beaver house was built of mud, grass and sticks, plastered together, and it was almost as large as, and quite like, a washtub turned upside down in the pond. Only now, as the pond was frozen over, the ice was all around the beaver house.

Toodle dived down through a lower door, came out in water, swam along under the ice until he reached a hole, and then up he bobbed. Soon he was on top of the ice, not far from his house, and he started to make a slide. Just as you do, he ran back and forth over the ice, and then, holding his feet firmly together, he let himself slide along, shouting with glee.

"Oh, it's lots of fun!" cried Tootle. "Come on have a slide!"

"Were you talking to me?" asked a voice, and there stood Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling in the cold air.

"No, Uncle Wiggily, I wasn't just 'sackley talking to you," answered Toodles. "I was calling to my brother Noodle to come out and have a slide. But you may have one if you like. Look."

Toodle ran again and slid along.

"It's lots of fun!" he cried.

"I believe you!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. He looked around to make sure Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy wasn't looking, and then he said: "I think I'll try a slide myself, Toodle. Do you think the ice will hold me?"

"Oh, sure it will!" laughed the beaver boy. "Go on—slide!"

Uncle Wiggily took a little run, then he held his paws firmly together and slid. But something was wrong. For the bunny gentleman tripped and fell and bumped his nose.

"That isn't the way to do it," said Toodle, as he helped Uncle Wiggily to stand up.

"I know it isn't," said the bunny. "I guess I went too fast. I'll try again." Once more he slid, but this time he fell over backward and bumped his head.

"That isn't the way, either," said Toodle.

"I know it isn't," admitted Mr. Longears. "Next time I'll shut my eyes." So he did this, but he tripped on a piece of wood, and, though he slid standing up part way down the slide, the rest of the way he slid sitting down.

"Now, don't tell me that isn't right, for I know it myself," laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he stood up. "But I'll try once more." And just as he tried again out from the woods ran the Fuzzy Fox. The Fox tried to catch Uncle Wiggily, but as soon as the Fox got on the ice of Toodle's slide the feet of the Fox slid from under him and he fell down and bumped his nose. "Bango!"

"Oh, wow!" howled the Fox, as he ran away holding his nose.

"Ho! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I'm not the only one who slips when he tries to slide." And then Noodle came out to slide with Toodle and the two beaver boys took hold of Uncle Wiggily, one on either side, and they held him up from falling until he could learn to slide without bumping his nose or his head and without sitting down. So they had lots of fun on the ice. And if the looking glass doesn't jump out of the bath room window to see the cake of soap go skating with the toothbrush, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Noodle's doughnuts.

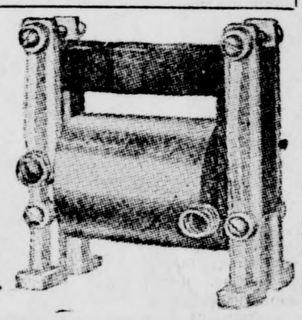
CHOKE COILS



In order to smooth out the pulsations in the direct current supply to keep the direct current constant when modulating, and to prevent the high frequency from getting into the power transformer it is essential that a choke coil be inserted in the direct current leads. Such a coil is illustraed and will successfully fill these conditions.

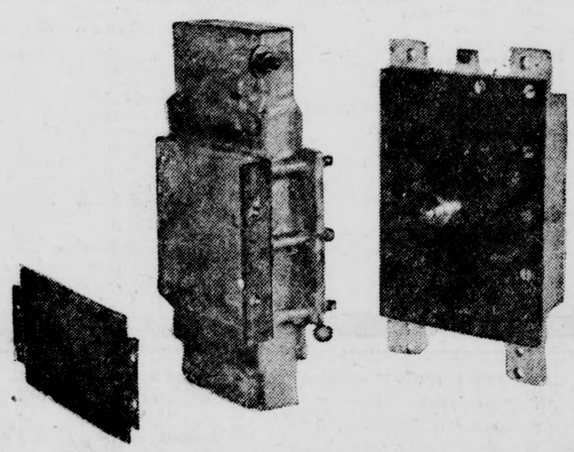
TRANSMITTING CONDENSERS



Before discussing the means of getting the oscillations into the antenna we should take into consideration the apparatus used in generating the oscillations, first taking the condenser unit. The most common types of condensers used in radio apparatus use mica or glass as the dielectric, with tinfoil or thin copper coating or sheeting as the conducting surfaces. Condensers with a compressed air dielectric are sometimes used; indeed, this type of condenser is considered the most perfect, but is seldom employed owing to its bulkiness and the fact that auxilfary apparatus, consisting of a compressor, etc., are necessary. For very high voltages the condenser plates are immersed in oil to prevent brush discharge. For some sets using moderate voltages, glass jars covered with tinfoil, or a copper coating, are frequently used.

This type of condenser is known as a "Leyden jar" named after its originator, Leyden. These jars are invariably coated with paraffin wax at the edges of the glass to prevent discharge.

Today the most common type of condenser met with in transmitters, is the mica condenser, first introduced by Dubilier, and known to most radio engineers by his name. This is the most compact condenser made and is highly efficient, being adopted as a standard by the United States navy. It consists of alternate layers of the best grade of mica and thin copper sheets. These are pressed together and placed in an aluminum container, immersed in a special insulating compound. They are most thoroughly tested before being issued, and as they possess a large margin of safety over the rated capacity, stand a relatively high voltage.

HOLD DEDICATION FOR K. OF C. CLUB

Bishop John J. Cantwell Takes Part in Ceremony Held Last Night

this evening, is not only intended for the Knights of Columbus," he asserted, "but, in their generosity, is to be a center for real Catholic activities."

Stand In Limelight

Bishop Cantwell suggested that Knights of Columbus should not seclude themselves, but should stand out in the limelight where all might see the manner in which they exemplify their principles.

"The man who is always true to God and faith," he asserted, "is always true to his country."

Grand Knight Jack Curtin presented the clubhouse with a large silk American flag in behalf of Los Angeles Council No. 621 of the Knights of Columbus.

Patriotism demonstrated by men of the Catholic faith during the revolution, the Civil war and the world war was emphasized by Mr. Curtin, who called attention to their courage and devotion to their country. He commented upon the fact that patriotism is one of the principles of Columbianism.

Set New Record

"You boys of Glendale have beaten the record for efficiency in getting results and economy of expense," declared Atty. Joseph Scott, congratulating the local council upon the new clubhouse.

According to Mr. Scott, K. of C. clubhouses are not intended to be either a monument to a group of officers or to the designing architect. He said that they are intended to be homey places where Knights of Columbus can enjoy themselves. He urged the development of a true fraternal attitude toward each other and suggested the incubation of the qualities of prudence and patience.

"If you and I are doing our duty," he remarked, "we don't need to worry about the Roman Catholic church."

Growth Is Rapid

Two hundred Knights have been initiated into the local council in the past sixty days, according to Grand Knight Harry Girard, who said that another class of fifty-three was now ready to be received. He spoke with the highest optimism in regard to the council's ability to pay off the financial obligation incurred in the clubhouse. He expressed an opinion that the debt would be cleared in four years instead of ten.

A musical program preceded the arrival of Bishop Cantwell. This consisted of vocal numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Henri LaBonte of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard.

A banquet was served at Casa Verdugo restaurant, following the dedication of the clubhouse. This was attended by the guests of honor.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—By Radio. — Harold F. McCormick, Chicago multi-millionaire, and his wife, Ganna Walska, Polish grand opera singer, who was operated upon early yesterday for appendicitis, is doing "extremely well," said a bulletin issued by Dr. Edmund T. Gros this afternoon.

Installs Officers

Installation of officers of the Women's Auxiliary of the local legion post was held last night in the legion hall on East Broadway, with Mrs. Carol Marks of Los Angeles, past department president of California, serving as installing officer.

Queen Esther Circle

The Queen Esther circle of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist-Episcopal church met last night with Miss Pauline Wilson, 126 South Louise street.

A cafeteria dinner was enjoyed, following which came the business meeting. A fine program was then conducted by Miss Elsie Whitney, in the nature of a chapter reading from the book on the negro, "The Vanguard of a Race."

The chapter read dealt with the wonderful work being done by the negress, Nannie Burroughs, of Washington, D. C., who has erected a school out of her own funds and is teaching members of her race some of the white man's knowledge.

The Queen Esther circle plans to hold a food sale soon, to raise money for the cause of the negro, as the Methodist home missionary societies all over the United States are devoting themselves to this work this year.

Women Discuss New Club House Plans

Further plans for the new club home of the Tuesday Afternoon club were discussed yesterday at the official board meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Ayars at 315 North Orange street. Mrs. Ayars served a delightful luncheon at the noon hour and in the afternoon clubhouse planning occupied the women's attention.

Mrs. W. E. Evans, chairman of the clubhouse furnishings committee, was also a guest at the Ayars home and gave a report on the investigations of her committee and presented samples of draperies.

The appointment of a janitor was considered and the final decision referred to the house committee. It is said that there are some twenty applications for the position.

Late in the afternoon the company visited the new clubhouse.

'Mountain Bird' Is Conspicuous Animal

A sleepy eyed, little shaggy burro, known in the west as a "Rock Mountain Bird," has been a conspicuous motorist around Glendale streets to advertise Palmer and Son, teamsters and house movers, located at 638 East Broadway.

Mr. Palmer takes his pet on all his excursions, and the little animal viewing the landscape from the tonneau of his master's small motor car attracts much attention.

Next to the burro, Mr. Palmer and his son feature general teaming and house moving.

Stocks, Markets

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The stock market was unsettled in the late dealings today, nearly all leading issues being in large supply and sustaining losses of from 1 to 3 points. United States Steel broke to 106 and Baldwin dropped 3 points. United Retail Stores yielded over 3 points and losses of from 1 to 2 points were suffered in many other industrial issues. Studebaker broke into new low ground for the movement.

Government bonds unchanged; railroad and other bonds irregular.

Stock sales today totaled 744,900 shares; bonds $12,341,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The grain market showed strength today despite a liberal supply of bearish news. The upturn was presumed to be due to an advance in sterling, which offset the decline in Liverpool wheat and other bearish factors.

Wheat closed ½ to ⅝c higher; corn ¾ to 1¼c up, and oats ½ to ⅝c higher.

Provisions finished irregular. Lard was firmer, short ribs easier.

CHECK 'PASSERS' TAKEN BY POLICE

Woman Who Operated Here Is Arrested in Pasadena; Hold Husband, Too

With the arrest in Pasadena on Friday of a woman using the name of Mrs. J. W. Uning, her husband and a Pasadena truck driver, local police and merchants believe that the mystery surrounding the large number of bad checks which have been passed in Glendale during the past four weeks will be solved.

The Uning woman and her husband are held in the Pasadena jail. The truck driver has been discharged from custody.

C. J. Hatz, owner of Hatz's wearing apparel store, who went to Pasadena yesterday and identified the woman as the one who passed a bad check on him last month, says that the Pasadena police have confiscated a truck load of merchandise taken from the lodgings occupied by the two prisoners.

Will Identify Goods

He says that the merchandise, which is wrapped in shop paper, will be unbundled probably tomorrow for identification. Glendale merchants who were victimized by the pair are invited to go to Pasadena and identify their property, Mr. Hatz said.

He said that the couple undoubtedly will be prosecuted in Pasadena, as they are alleged to have defrauded a number of merchants in that city.

The little girl, which accompanied the woman on her Glendale "bad check" expedition, has been taken away from the pair, Mr. Hatz volunteered.

Gang Followed Closely

The Glendale Merchants' Credit association, which was notified first of the arrest of the check "passers," has been following closely the activities of the gang for the past month. Frank H. Pilling, secretary of the organization, estimates that more than twenty-five local merchants were defrauded by the jailed couple.

All of the checks passed in Glendale by the woman were made out for $30. Her system was to visit a store, make a small purchase, and tender a check. The presence of the small girl with the woman gave the checks submitted a genuine touch, Mr. Hatz stated yesterday.

The truck load of merchandise confiscated is believed to be the "small purchases" made here and elsewhere by the woman.

There will always be two-by-fours in office while the great American voter distrusts men who have enough ability to make money.

THEATRES

The Glendale

A diverting comedy of modern marriage is the Goldwyn photoplay "Brothers Under the Skin," now showing at the Glendale Theatre. It is adapted from a magazine story by Peter B. Kyne, and though the treatment is on the whole light, there runs under the surface merriment a substratum of powerful drama and an amount of truthful observation of human character in the marriage relationship, making the film, in addition to a delightful comedy, something of a social study to the analytical minded spectator.

The story concerns the matrimonial troubles of Craddock, a shipping clerk, and Kirtland, vice president of a manufacturing concern, together with the doings of their wives, Millie and Dorothy.

The T. D. & L.

"When Knighthood Was In Flower," the big special Paramount picture hailed as one of the greatest films ever made, starts today at the T. D. & L. Theatre. Four shows are scheduled—1, 3:30, 6 and 8:30 o'clock. This same plan will be followed on Wednesday and Thursday.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower" is expected to break all T. D. & L. attendance records. Hundreds of inquiries, covering many weeks of time, have been pouring into the theatre relative to its showing here. Now that today is the first of its three-day run, great audiences are expected.

Special prices prevail—general admission 55 cents, children 28 cents, loges 83 cents, and a few seats at $1.

The Reward of Dependable Service

The laborer is worthy of his reward.—1 Timothy iii:3

The highest rewards in business or the professions go to those who meet their responsibilities. The man or the institution performing a service on which the public can always rely, without disappointment or loss, with certainty of fullest satisfaction, stands at the forefront in every line of human endeavor.

It is by rendering such service, year in and year out, with utmost dependability, that the L. G. Scovern Co. occupies its present position.

PARTY DOOMED BY NUMBER THIRTEEN

Picnic Party Trespasses on Private Land; Made to Wade Through Creek

Mrs. W. W. Bombard and Mrs. Ray Andrews of 512 and 515 West Salem street respectively, have decided that the next time they act as hostesses at a picnic, thirteen will be a number to be eschewed.

It is a sad, sad story, but it has its humorous angles. This, in brief, is how it all befell: The Bombard and Andrews families, together with a number of friends, making a party for which thirteen covers—that is to say, paper plates—were laid, went a-picnicking on Sunday.

That much was all right and no doubt all would have been well, had, not some romantic eye observed a clump of most inviting trees, far off beyond the roadway, across a miniature river.

Arrange for Lunch

Helms were put about and the motors, bearing the party, parked alongside the road. Whereupon everyone set off across country toward that picturesque tree clump. With the aid of a number of boards, the river was forded.

Once on the other side, the aforesaid "covers" were immediately laid and the hungry thirteen proceeded to make short shrift of a delicious lunch — when suddenly an irate individual who turned out to be the owner of the property appeared on the scene. Pointing to a small, inoffensive-looking sign that no one had noticed, he spelled out for the picnickers the ominous words "No Trespassing."

Result: Thirteen half-dined, repentant trespassers left everything, including their fording boards, and waded back to their automobiles through three feet (deep) of very wet water.

Hence the determination on the part of the hostesses to eschew parties of thirteen in the future.

GOV. RICHARDSON IN FIRST MESSAGE

Urges Lawmakers to Help Him Carry Out Pledge To Secure Economy

job of political house cleaning. During the past few years another great political machine has come into power which has cost the people millions of dollars. It will be necessary to first wreck this political machine before the state can be put on an economical basis and the government again handed back to the people.

Form of Government

"Economy in government is not entirely a matter of the form of government, but must depend primarily upon the spirit and purpose of the officers in control of state affairs. The state should improve its form of government by elimination of unnecessary boards and officers, by consolidation, and by doing away with overlapping functions. Two years ago this state combined certain offices into departments, and the result has shown that it is difficult to find supermen to head these departments, that not a single office has been eliminated and that the cost of these departments has increased rather than decreased. Efficiency and economy were not desired, hence were not secured. Primarily the people must depend upon the men in government rather than upon form of government, but with men dedicated to good public service much can be done, and with an improved plan still more.

Waste on Highways

"The state highways are in a deplorable condition. Millions of dollars of the people's money have been squandered on roads which have proved a failure. The specifications under which the roads have been built have proved defective. The original four-inch cement highways intended to be permanent roads broke down in a very few years. The five-inch concrete highways have been nearly a total failure. The roads themselves and the Pittsburg test show the state specifications defective. After several years of experience the engineering department in charge of the highway work has shown itself incapable of learning even through the experience of its blunders. The people who pay the bills will not soon forget those who are responsible for this result. The task of reconstruction and maintaining these broken down highways will be a tremendous undertaking.

Better and Fewer Laws

"Upon the Legislature rests the grave responsibility of passing new laws and repealing old ones. The value of your work will depend upon the merit, and not upon the volume, of your work. Let us hope that the statute book of 1923 will be the smallest in size in a score of years.

"Civil Service has proved its worth, and the defects complained of are mainly those of administration. Civil service to be truly appreciated must be contrasted with the old spoils system. Civil service employes who become inefficient should be promptly recommended for discharge, as the state should be protected as well as the employes. In the recent primary election the law against collecting political assessments from civil service employes was violated. This should be investigated and the offenders brought to justice.

"The people have indicated that they want the Volstead Act enforced, and every peace officer in California should do his full duty. The rigid enforcement of this law will result in moral benefit to the whole state, and will also save the cities, counties and the state many thousands of dollars. The constitution of the nation and of the state must be respected, and all good citizens regardless of opinion, should unite in this worthy object.

Economy Budget

"Some time during the present month an executive budget will be presented to you. This budget will represent the expressed will of the people in the matter of state economy and will carry into effect the purpose of the budget amendment adopted at the recent election.

"There is a demand for a more speedy trial of cases before the courts. The remedy seems to be in more activity on the part of the judiciary and less delay on the part of the attorneys. As the state pays part of the salaries of the superior judges of the counties, the state has a right to insist upon efficient service and the resignation of those who become derelict or incompetent. The matter of simplifying court procedure should have your careful attention.

Objectionable Lobbying

"Legislatures heretofore have succeeded in a measure in limiting and controlling lobbying. While you are supreme in this matter, the executive can assist you in checking a form of lobbying which is objectionable, and that is the attempt of state employes and members of boards and commissions to exert undue influence upon the members of the legislature. At the last session of the legislature there were state employes who spent weeks in Sacramento at state expense trying to influence and seeking to intimidate the members of the legislature. Political bosses drawing state salaries and on state expenses shocked the people of California by their brazen action. Some of these bosses are now in the employ of the corporations which they then opposed. If such employes are not needed in their various departments they should be removed from the pay roll. No state employe should come to Sacramento except upon the request of the legislature, or some of its committees, or upon official business. Employes residing in Sacramento should assist the legislature when called upon, but should not assume the role of lobbyist.

Accident Commission

"The Industrial Accident commission has been a beneficial humane agency in safeguarding workmen and their families. This commission should be composed of strong, able, competent men who can and will do the great work placed in their charge. This commission must be protected and, if possible, put on a more efficient and systematic basis. In the buying of securities for investment for the compensation fund there should be a strict limit placed upon the character of the purchases so as to prevent speculation and the purchase of doubtful bonds and questionable stocks.

"The value of the direct primary law was signally demonstrated in the primary election when the great state political machine aided by most of the county politicians went down to defeat. The machine politicians were united in their opposition to good government, but the people by their votes showed they were tired of extravagance and boss rule.

Education and Thrift

"The education of the youth of the state is one of the most vital matters, and, while California ranks high in educational standards, it should be our endeavor to have it rank still higher. Education should not be confined to book learning, but should embrace good morals, unselfish citizenship, manual training, thrift and loyalty to national ideals. The people are willing to contribute liberally to education because it promotes better citizenship, but they are not willing to have their money squandered. The educational departments of the state should be placed on an economical and efficient basis, waste should be eliminated, and advocates of thrift should be placed in control.

"You will undoubtedly join me in support of every possible aid to farmers, good roads, fair dealing to labor, Oriental exclusion, justice to our war heroes and the protection of life and property. It is my purpose to remove from office the members of the present political machine, to substitute business for politics in state government, to abolish unnecessary offices and commissions, to restore efficiency to the various departments, to put highway construction in the hands of skilled road builders, to attend strictly to the business of my office, and, while meeting all the necessary needs of the state, to save the people many millions of dollars. Your co-operation and support will be of inestimable aid to me in my plan, and you undoubtedly realize that you are under the same obligations to the people and should be responsive to their wishes in as full a measure.

"California should be kept in the foremost ranks of progressive states, all forward looking legislation must be cherished and every effort should be exercised to extend those humane functions of government which will help mankind in their struggles.

"This message is submitted to you in the confident hope that you will seriously consider the suggestions, and will give them expression in the legislation you may enact."

Europe may not be destroyed, but the plucked tourist who returns voices the hope that it will be.

FRENCH ADVANCE IN NEUTRAL ZONE

croach upon the British occupational territory.

Troops Being Massed

DUSSELDORF, Jan. 9.—French troops were being massed here today for seizure of Essen, seat of Germany's largest industry, the Krupp works.

General De Goutte, commander of the French army of occupation and General Berthelot, chief of staff, arrived here to establish headquarters. It is 16 miles from Dusseldorf to Essen.

Penetrate Neutral Zone

ESSEN, Jan. 9.—French advance guards today penetrated the neutral zone reaching Kettwig, half way between Dusseldorf and this city, according to news received here.

Kettwig is a railway and industrial town between seven and eight miles northeast of Dusseldorf and the same distance southwest of Essen. It lies approximately two miles over the neutral zone boundary.

The French advance guard consists mainly of railroaders and engineers with equipment. A heavier force of French, believed to consist chiefly of soldiers, is reported to be immediately behind the advance guard.

France Issues Denial

PARIS, January 9. — The French foreign office denied the statement in Washington that Secretary of State Hughes' reparations plan for an international commission of bankers had been formally transmitted to France.

It was also denied that the United States had formally notified France that America disapproved of seizure of the Ruhr.

Cabinet to Meet

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Premier A. Bonar Law today summoned the cabinet to meet Thursday to consider the European situation arising from the breakdown of the reparations conference at Paris.

erful reason for achieving the objective—such a reason, for instance, as the demonstration that proper living and proper coaching, backed by a clean student body, will produce the victory.

Finally, expanding his idea of the necessity of a background, Captain Dolley stated that by this he meant the general physical and moral environment of the players and the school. He dwelt on the necessity not so much of a sudden spurt of training as the keeping in condition the year around. In this connection he brought out that nine out of eleven of the winning U. of S. C. football teams were non-smokers.

Another feature of the banquet, which was in charge of Secretary Rex C. Kelley of the Y. M. C. A., was the fine music afforded by Al Brown's orchestra of high school students. This bunch of skilful musicians played at intervals throughout the course of the banquet and the addresses that followed, and too much cannot be said of the high quality of the entertainment they offered.

The gathering was opened by Paul Edmonds, Glendale Hi-Y president, who expressed the purpose of the occasion and hoped that since this was the second consecutive banquet to the football men, the precedent now well established would be continued annually.

Evert Smits, student body president, then brought the greetings of the student body to the teams, after which Fred Stofft, heavyweight captain, gave a short talk thanking the student body for its fine support and paying a staunch tribute to the coaches.

Principal George U. Moyse then addressed the gathering on "School Spirit," pointing out that school spirit is service, and therefore unselfish.

Normal G. Hayhurst, heavyweight coach, reviewed the past season. "Both teams established a record for clean sport during 1922," he stated. "That in itself would make the season a successful one."

He was followed by Howard L. Butterfield, lightweight coach, who spoke on the prospects for 1923. His advice was that students and players should not forget football, now that the season is over, but should keep thinking and reading football, learning more of the game and what it means in American sport. And above all, he concluded, the thing to be desired is a large squad when the next season comes.

The meeting was brought to a close with a few words of prayer by Rev. E. E. Ford.

We'll Say We Had An Enthusiastic Crowd Sunday

—About seventy-five people accepted our invitation to visit Signal Hill Sunday and see where BEMCO Syndicate No. 1 is going to drill for oil.

—These people saw with their own eyes the marvelous development of OIL on Signal Hill. Who would have dared to predict a year and a half ago, that the bringing in of the Shell Discovery well on Signal Hill would mean, in a remarkably short time, the development of California's wonder oil pool, whose sands of 500 to 1500 feet in thickness beggar comparison throughout the country?

—The city of Long Beach, now a booming metropolis of this giant industry, was slow to awaken to the great, slumbering wealth-giving pool below. Development was not hastened until 2000, then 3000, 4000 and 5000 barrel wells began to burst in one after the other—each demonstrating the unlimited possibilities of further development!

—City officials, doctors, merchants, lawyers—the whole populace dropped work for the moment and entered with dead earnestness into the greatest game in the world—the quest for OIL.

—Now, over 125,000 barrels are pouring out daily—pouring into the hands of those courageous enough to invest. And that monster output increases and increases as the boundaries of this pool spread and spread. No one knows how far they will go.

—Hundreds of people are being made rich because they figured our their opportunity and ACTED while it lasted!

—For the first time in history, perhaps, a city municipality bids fair to become taxless. The City of Long Beach, according to latest figures, will have received during the year of 1922, approximately $200,000 in royalties from city-owned properties. Their returns should be near $1,000,000 for 1923!

—The Crescent Oil Company has paid nearly 300 per cent dividends in six months.

—And so it goes—not a story of impossibilities, but one of amazing realities. To whom will future millions, yet uncovered, go?

—BEMCO No. 1 is your opportunity. This well will soon start drilling within 550 feet of Herwick No. 7, a producer which late Sunday afternoon spouted oil 200 feet over its derrick after being cleaned out.

—BEMCO No. 1 offers you the chance to get in on Signal Hill in company with a low capitalization.

—Will you be one of the fortunate ones?

—You can easily investigate Bemco by going with us tomorrow at 11 a. m. Free trips daily with lunch. Make arrangements by phone.
